Washington Chapter

Assessing Performance issues (and what to do next)

Have you noticed that addressing a performance issue sometimes makes it worse?
What happened? Is there anything I can do now? How do I avoid this?

On March 20th Wayne Worthen will be sharing performance improvement insights gleaned in his 25+ years of management and entrepreneurial experience. Wayne has designed and developed custom training and performance improvement programs at the executive level for numerous Fortune 1000 companies.

Participants will leave with a basic understanding of a standardized model used to deal with performance deficiencies in a pragmatic and efficient manner. This is a model that works for any company that has employees – one or a thousand.
